Title Holder Easily Wins Closing Sets

Columbia Club Star Victor in Second Half of Challenge Round, 6-0, 6-2

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21. - Jay America, successfully defended his title here to-day by defeating Jock Soutar, world's professional racquets champion, in the second half of the challenge round, 6—0, 6—2. Gould, who also is the national amateur title holder, won three out of the four sets played last Wednesday, which, with the two sets to-day, gave him the necessary five sets to clinch the title. Of the six sets played Soutar won only one, and that by the close margin of one game.

the six sets played Soutar won only one, and that by the close margin of one game.

At the close of the match Walter Kinsella, of New York, who was defeated by Gould last year, challenged the champion for another match. The challenge was taken under consideration by a committee of the Philadelphia Racquet Club, whose colors Gould wears. Gould represents the Columbia Club in amateur competition.

Gould was in splendid form to-day. He had no trouble with his opponent's "railroad service," lobbed them up, changed his pace and performed almost every trick known to the sport. He stroked the ball with uncanny skill, sending it to the dedans and gallaries with such frequency as completely to baffle the professional.

Soutar appeared helpless before the brilliant all-around play of the champion. Gould gathered 25 points in the first set and 31 in the second, while the best Soutar could do was to collect 9 in the first and 19 in the second set.

Of all the sizzling, miraculous gets and strokes Gould got off to-day those after deuce had been reached were probably the most spectacular. He obtained vantage on a beautiful corner shot which took two walls and the floor and left Soutar swinging. Soutar, in trying to win a chase, dashed high over the decans and Gould, anti-epating the shot, dashed to the net and just managed to get his racquet on the ball to tip it over.

Roy Moore Loses Bout to O'Gatty On Foul in Third

Roy Moore, who recently knocked out Jack Sharkey, was disqualified in the third round of his scheduled fifteen round bout with Packey O'Gatty before a record-breaking crowd at the Pioneer Sporting Club last night. The St. Paul featherweight was warned repeatedly against hitting low, and finally Referee Eddie Pollock stepped in and awarded the fight to the local lad.

Moore delivered foul blows throughout the three rounds. He dropped O'Gatty with a body punch in the second round, but even that wallop was considered unethical. Packey, however, did not protest, but twice during the round the referee cautioned Moore. In the third round Roy continued to hit below the belt, and when he repeated after two warnings in this session Pollock stepped in and ordered Moore to his corner.

Jimmy O'Gatty, a brother of Packey, knocked out Mike Carroll, a local welterweight, in the second round of the semi-final.

The United States now has the tennis situation pretty well in its grip. It holds the championship of London, the championship of Great Britian, the Davis Cup and its own national title. But in polo and golf, the other two leading international sports, there is still a job ahead. Great Britain still controls the polo cup, which will be fought for Offer $10,000 Guaranty again this approaching summer.

This is merely mentioned to prevent too many from taking it for granted that we hold all the championships there are. There is still a job or so ahead that calls for no inconsiderable amount of competitive talent.

Dempsey's $50,000 Bond Found; Rickard Expects No Litigation

Garden Promoter to Learn To-day if Cochran Will Carry Out Fight Contract

By W. O. McGeehan

By W. O. McGeehan

The fog settled more thickly over the Dempsey-Carpentier bout yesterday and nothing was heard in the vicinity of Madison Square Garden but the strident shriek of the official statement and the ominous click of the typewriters. Only one bright ray penetrated the gloom. The lost Dempsey-Kearns bond for $50,000 was found.

Aided by some friendly safe crackers, who found time hanging heavily on their hands because of the current competition in their line of work in the City of New York, Dan McKetrick opened a private strong box left here by Mr. Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Denmpsey. The lost bond was located there wrapped around a set of curl papers.

there wrapped around a set of curl papers.

After McKetrick located the bond, Dumb Dan Morgan located McKetrick, the Hon. Leo P. Flynn located Dumb Dan Daniel and Ike Dorgan located all three. The bond and the bond hunters were brought to Tex Rickard's office.

According to Mr. Rickard, the bond was executed prior to November 20, as provided for in the articles, and is made payable to the promoters in the event that Jack Dempsey should fail to carry out his part of the contract. Mr. Rickard believes that this is sufficient evidence of good faith on the part of the champion. Actually there never was any question as to the chances of Mr. Jack Dempsey not showing up to collect $300.000.

collect $300.000.

Oversight by Mr. Kearns

It seems that Mr. Kearns, who has become fatigued by handling bonds for $50,000 and upward, assumed that the document was merely a copy and tossed it into the strong box with his personal dice and deck of cards and other implements used by high financiers. He was vained and distressed to learn that there was any question as to the bond being executed.

The bond was issued by a Baltimore surety company. After it was pried away from Daniel McKetrick and the other bondholders it was agreed to deposit it with the Central Union Trust Company.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21.-A little ten-year-old girl will prove a big factor in the 1921 baseball melodrama. Upon the recovery of Ottilie Baker, daughter of "Home Run" Baker, depends the diamond future of the former third baseman of the Yankees.
